Host a TED Talk

Consider hosting a TED Talk in your community. Invite participants to watch a short video, followed by a discussion. You may also consider inviting a local expert on the topic to lead the discussion. SASH Coordinator Andrea Bibeau has had great success with these talks:

- How body language shapes who you are.

- Stem cells-brain repair
- How to speak up for yourself
- Has technology changed love?
- The meaning of empathy

Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR)

Dear SASH Wellness Nurse Team -

A member of the SASH Wellness Nurse team recently inquired if I had any plans for training the team on Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR). About a week later, one of our fellow SASH Wellness Nurses, Susan Schmidt, RN shared this website on MBSR which contains a host of free content and an 8 week online course. I would like to pass this along to you all as well -

Many thanks to Susan Schmidt, RN for sharing this resource!

Nutrition and Eating with Dementia

The cognitive impairment associated with dementia and Alzheimer's Disease can make it difficult for clients to initiate and complete the steps required for eating, and caregivers may need to provide support to ensure an adequate intake of food and fluids. Because the causes and manifestations of dementia are complex and varied, it is difficult to find strong evidence to support a set of specific practices considered to be a gold standard for working with this population. Included below are articles that provide good overviews of strategies, as well as a promising new technique using the Montessori method.
